

For the literature review, we split up the literature between all of us. I picked a few articles for people to review then I reviewed two of them. The first article looked at the impact of macroeconomic data news releases on stock market prices (Birz et al). The second article looked at the impact of monetary policy announcements (federal interest rates) on stock market prices (Bomfim et al). I also contributed to the challenges part and some other parts of the paper.